WHAT THE TREATY MEANS TO STATE

MANY PRODUCTS AND INDUSTRIES WOULD BE BENEFITED MATERIALLY.

SOME OF ITS BENEFITS

Brief Resume of the Canadian Treaty As It Directly Affects the Wisconsin People.

"That the Canadian Reciprocity treaty, which is now being argued pro and con in the national congress, really affects the Wisconsin products and industries in many material points seems, at first sight, of little consequence to the readers of the 'Gazette' may more clearly understand what benefits it will accomplish for home industries the following article has been prepared.

Agricultural Implements: This is one of Wisconsin's leading industries. The value of the output from Wisconsin's 52 factories was more than $10,000,000 according to the Census of Manufactures of 1905. Under the agreement, agricultural machinery when imported into Canada will be taxed at 15 per cent or 20 per cent ad valorem instead of at 17 1/2 per cent, 20 per cent, or 25 per cent as at present. The importance of this concession may be gathered from the fact that Canada imported from the United States in the fiscal year 1910 farm machinery to the value of $5,227,000. Wisconsin on account of her nearness to the great Canadian northwest should secure a large share of the increased sales resulting from these material reductions in duty.

Farm wagons: are to be admitted into Canada from the United States at a reduction of 10 per cent from the present rate, which is 25 per cent ad valorem. Canada imported from the United States in the fiscal year 1910, 5,229 such wagons valued at $217,570. This should prove a valuable concession to Wisconsin's carriage and wagon industry, whose product according to the last census of manufactures was valued at more than seven and one-half million dollars.

As to wheat and wheat flour: The proposed agreement provides for the free entry of Canadian wheat into the United States. The present tax of 25 cents per bushel is prohibitive. This will render available to the extensive milling interests of Wisconsin a new and practically unlimited source of supply. The potential value of this reduction in duty to Wisconsin milling interests is shown by the fact that the value of the output of Wisconsin's flour mills is about $30,000,000 annually and wheat is produced within the state only to the value of $3,315,900. Canada also reduces her duty on wheat flour by 16 2/3 per cent. This should serve to increase our exports to Canada of the finished product, which during the past year amounted to more than a half million dollars.

As to live animals and meat products: The proposed reciprocal agreement places all live animals on the free list. The United States now taxes all cattle imported at rates averaging 27 1/2 per cent of their value, swine at $1.50 and sheep at 75 cents or $1.50 each. These sweeping reductions in duty should prove of great moment to the packing industry of the state. It offers at once a cheaper and more abundant source of supply. The possibilities of Canada as a source of supply is shown by the fact that Canada exported during the fiscal year 1910 live cattle to the value of nearly 11 million dollars. The agreement also provides for substantial reductions in all meat products. Fresh and refrigerated meats upon which Canada now imposes a duty of 3 cents per pound are to be admitted at 1 1/2 cents per pound; all dried, salted, smoked or preserved meats, including hams and bacon, are to be admitted into Canada at 1 1/2 cents per pound in lieu of the present rate of 2 cents per pound; lard and lard compounds, cottonlaine, cottonlaine stearine and animal stearine also obtain a reduction in duties of 3/4 of a cent per pound; canned meats and canned poultry and meat extracts now dutiable on importation into Canada at 2 1/2 per cent ad valorem will be, admitted at 20 per cent. Canada imported from the United States in the fiscal year 1910 meat products valued at more than 35 million dollars. The value of Wisconsin's output of meat products was more than $10,000,000 in 1905 according to the census of manufactures. On account of her nearness to Canadian markets, the state should receive no little benefit from the sweeping reductions in duty made upon meat products.

As to canned fruits and canned vegetables: By the terms of the agreement, Canada will reduce the duty on canned fruits from 2 1/2 cents per pound to 1 1/2 cents and on canned vegetables from 1 1/2 cents a pound to 1 1/2 cents. The canning industry of Wisconsin is becoming very important. According to the last census of manufactures the output of Wisconsin's canneries was valued at nearly $3,000,000. The reduction in duty should enable Wisconsin to sell an increased amount of canned goods in the neighboring Canadian markets.

IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE IN SCHEDULE

Complete Change in Time Card of Both Freight and Passenger Trains Went into Effect Yesterday.

Yesterday the new time schedule which involves changes in the time of both freight and passenger trains leaving from and arriving at Janesville, went into effect. The result of the new arrangement is to make more trains through here in the day-time and increased business during the day and less at night is assured.

Under the new system the shop car is rated first-class and is numbered according to the four trips down town and back as follows: First, 551 and 550; second, 552 and 553; third, 554 and 555; fourth, 556 and 557. The way freight which was formerly due out of Janesville at 6:30 a. m., now leaves at 6:40. The time freight schedule is as follows: Arriving in Janesville from Chicago and north for Harbison, train 579 at 3:45 a. m.; train 583, 4:29 a. m.; train 585 at 11:10 p. m. And trains leaving here from Harbison bound for Chicago are as follows: 580 leaves at 2:30 p. m.; 586, at 3:15 p. m.; 578, at 12:30 p. m. Time freight number 651 has been taken off.

Passenger Schedule.
Important changes have also been made in the passenger schedule of trains arriving and departing here over the C. & N. W. The following are noted: To Chicago via Clinton, 8:20 instead of 7:35 a. m., and 9:30 instead of 8:15 a. m.; arriving from Chicago via Clinton, 7:20 instead of 12:20 a. m.; the 11:50 has been taken off and 11:00 is at same time. From Chicago via Beloit, 9:00 and 11:30 a. m. and 4:15 p. m.; to Madison and points north, changes have been made so that trains run as follows: 12:35, 2:15, and 4:15 a. m. and 6:50 p. m.; returning, 1:20, 3:15, 5:40, 7:15, 8:20 a. m., and 7:20 p. m. Beloit and Rockford, returning, 11:30 a. m. and 6:15 p. m. Atton and Beloit, 6:15 a. m. and 7:25 p. m. Ft. Atkinson and Watertown, only change is leaving at 7:15 instead of 8:05 p. m. Atton, Hanover and Footville leave at 10:45 instead of 10:35.

Engine 324, used on the way freight, is in the shop for repairs.

Engines 1741 and 1742 have been assigned to trains number 579 and 578 between Chicago and Janesville. And engines 1723 and 1744 have been assigned to trains 583 and 586 between Chicago and Janesville.

Henry Urbaner has resigned his position as machinist's helper and will go to Chicago.

Engineer White and Fireman Dooley double-headed out of here yesterday on engine 792 which is just out of the shops after a general overhauling, with train 580. Engine 792 was bound for Harvard.

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILMENT CAUSED DELAY IN TRAINS

Wreck on C. M. & St. P. Road Near Waukesha Caused Delay in Train Due Here at 10:20 This Morning.

Derailment of several box cars of a freight train near Waukesha on the Prairie du Chien division caused a delay of several hours to the passenger train from Milwaukee, due here at 10:20 this morning. The accident was not a serious one but necessitated the calling of the wrecking crew from Milwaukee to place the cars on the track. The passenger train arrived here at 12:20. No other trains were held and traffic was not seriously tied up on account of the delay.

James Fox has been laying off for the past three days on account of sickness.

John Brinkman has been laying off and John Kellner has been relieving him at the cinder pit.

Engineer Wilkinson and Fireman McAuliffe went out on an extra at eleven o'clock this morning.

Engineer Smith and Fireman Martin went out on an extra at 5:15 this morning.

BOOM COMMERCE OF THE CONTINENT

Trade Congress of the American Republics Opens.

FIRST ADDRESS IS BY TAFT

He Wants Reciprocity Arrangements Completed When Canal Is Done—Many Distinguished Men Taking Part in the Conference.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Owing to the moral protectorate that the United States has virtually established over several Central American republics and the rapid progress that is being made toward the completion of the Panama canal, exceptional interest is being manifested in the commercial conference under the auspices of the Pan-American union, which opened in this city today. Not far from a thousand delegates are on hand.

The purpose of the conference, as announced by Director General John J. Barrett, is to develop active and widespread interest in the opportunities for the extension of trade among the American republics, or between the United States and its twenty sister countries situated south of it. The conference will also consider thoroughly the important question of preparation for the advantageous use of the Panama canal—a matter that has been neglected by the great majority of the commercial organizations and business houses carrying on an export and import trade.

The conference has the vigorous support of the Taft administration. The president believes that it will be better for the whole continent when more cordial trade relations are established, and he has in mind the establishment of reciprocal trade agreements between the United States and her sister American republics. He is anxious to have all these agreements completed by the time the Panama canal is opened.

Addresses by Taft and Knox.

Both the president and Secretary Knox delivered addresses at the opening session this afternoon. Addresses were also made by several of the Latin-American ambassadors and ministers and other distinguished officials.

Tomorrow morning the practical work of the convention will begin and the sessions will continue morning, afternoon and night until Saturday. There will be discussions of a large variety of subjects affecting trade conditions, conducted by the best official and private experts in the country. The state department of the United States is co-operating by detailing several of its diplomatic and consular officers who have posts in Latin America to attend and participate, while, on the other hand, the diplomatic and consular representatives of the Latin American countries in the United States have been invited to take part in the discussions. The bureau of manufactures of the department of commerce and labor is likewise co-operating and several of its experts will deliver talks on those points which both exporters and importers desire to have elaborated. A number of the delegates of the United States to the International Conference of American Republics, which was held last summer in Buenos Aires, Argentina, will make addresses.

No Politics or Resolutions.

Several features of the conference differ radically from other meetings of business men. It is educational and informative, rather than controversial. No political or partisan issues will be debated and no resolutions adopted which have any bearing upon unsettled issues before congress or the people. In this way all parties will be avoided which often mar the success of gatherings intended to promote foreign commerce. Instead, moreover, of having a long program containing a list of addresses and speakers, the talks will be informal, permitting of interruption at any point and the asking of questions by the others present. Certain designated persons will be called upon to open the discussions, and they will be followed by others who may wish to enlarge upon what is said or to make inquiries. In this way all the delegates in attendance will have an opportunity to participate actively in its proceedings.

The sessions are held in the new building of the union, which was recently dedicated to the cause of Pan-American commerce and unity.

EDGERTON MAN HAS RETURNED FROM CLEAR LAKE, IOWA

Frank M. Bliven Who Met With A Serious Accident There Recently Has Returned To His Home.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Edgerton, Feb. 12.—Frank M. Bliven, who came three or four weeks ago met with a serious accident at Clear Lake, Iowa, while engaged with a force of men harvesting ice and which necessitated the amputating of his right leg below the knee, arrived home Saturday night and was at once taken to the home of his father, Eugene Bliven. He was accompanied here by David W. Brown of that place who will visit his father and other relatives here for several weeks.

Young Bliven is an Edgerton boy, 23 years of age and had been in the west since last summer. At the time of the accident he was employed by the Clear Lake Ice Company and it is claimed that it is through some irregularity of the machinery that the accident occurred. Before leaving Clear Lake he had instituted suit against the company for $20,000. The misfortune to the young man is indeed a sad one.

Personal and Local.

Mrs. W. A. Nelson after a home visit of over a week, left Sunday evening for her home in Racine.

W. H. Cox and Peter Anderson of Indian Ford, have just made a shipment of 305 head of sheep to the Chicago market for which they received $125 per hundred. The market, for sheep, Mr. Cox says, is extremely low for this time of the year. Mr. Cox is one of the most extensive sheep raisers of the county and he has another shipment in readiness to go at any time.

H. C. Schmelling of this city has just purchased of W. B. Paul of Milton Junction, three head of heavy Percheron mares, which he will ship to his stock farm in Seymour. Mr. Schmelling owns an extensive stock and dairy farm at that place of which his brother, George Schmelling, is manager at present, having recently moved there.

Thomas Flarity residing in the third ward, is reported very seriously ill.

Friday evening to attend the firemen's ball and remained over Sunday as guest of the families of Frank and Sam Pringle and James Keller.

James Mulligan of Jansville, was in town over Sunday, guest of Mrs. Dan Harrington and other members of the family.

TEN-YEAR SENTENCE AT WAUPUN FOLLOWS BURNS' GUILTY PLEA

Deloit Man Charged With Serious Offense Pleaded Guilty and Was Taken to Waupun This Afternoon.

Thomas Burns of Deloit, charged with a serious offense against State Law, nine years old, was sentenced to ten years in the state prison at Waupun in municipal court at Deloit, this morning. Burns was to have been given a trial by jury but at the last moment, with the jury at the box and the witnesses all assembled and everything ready for the trial to begin, he changed his plea to guilty and was given the ten-year sentence by Judge Ross. This plea on the part of the prisoner was unexpected, and a good move on his part, for if he had been convicted, he would undoubtedly have received a sentence of about 25 years. In pronouncing the verdict Judge Ross said that the alleged crime was the most heinous ever brought before his court.

Burns was brought back to the county jail in this city this morning, where he had been held up to the time of his trial and from here was taken to Waupun by Tuesday Kemp at 12:35.

TWO ATTEMPTS AT ROBBERY FAILED

Gund Browning Co. and Janesville Coal Company's Offices Broken Into Saturday Night.

Two futile attempts at robbery were made on Saturday night, when the offices of the Gund Browning company on South Franklin street and the Janesville Coal company on South River street were broken into. The two places are very close together and the methods of the thieves were similar and it is evident the same persons visited both places.

The police department was notified that the Browning company's office had been burglarized Sunday morning. Entrance to the building was effected through double doors at the rear of the building near the railroad tracks. The outer door was pried open with an iron bar and the inner one was shoved in. They went directly to the office and although the safe was unlocked, the burglars did not touch it, and knelt down to look at the safe. So attempt was made to force the door. The drawers in both desks in the office were ransacked and in searching for money a bunch of postage stamps were picked out and left. Two blue three, a one-cent stamp and a five-cent stamp were left. The only booty secured by the marauders was three small bottles of beer which they removed from a case in the storeroom. There was no money in the safe.

The coal company's office was broken into in exactly the same manner and an attempt to break into the safe was made with the same results. Desk drawers were ransacked but a dollar's worth of postage stamps were untouched and as far as could be learned nothing was taken.

The circumstances in both cases are peculiar. If the work was done by boys, home talent, it is thought they would have stolen the pipes and stamps, while on the other hand, if professionals were responsible, they would have opened the safes after knocking the knobs off.

MADE INSPECTION OF STATE INSTITUTION

Legislative Committee on State Institutions Inspected Local Institution on Saturday.

On Saturday last the legislative committee on state institutions made their biennial inspection of the State institution for the blind preparatory to making their report to the legislature. The committee was composed of State Senators Truitt of Darabara and Truesdale of Chilpewa Falls, and Assemblymen Harper of Madison, and Pickard of Fond du Lac, and Brookhouse of Milwaukee. They were much pleased with the work of the local school and advancement under Dr. Brown, the superintendent, and will recommend changes in the dining room and kitchen arrangements and the construction of a new site for the building. The total cost of the improvements will reach sixteen hundred dollars. The committee went from here to Delavan.

JUDGE S. D. TALLMAN REPORTED ENGAGED

Unconfirmed Rumor He Is To Wed Miss Mabel Walker of Racine, During Coming Summer.

Friends of Mabel Walker of Racine, and Stanley D. Tallman of this city, are anxiously waiting for the fact they are to be married during the coming summer. Miss Walker is a graduate of the state university, a member of the Gamma Phi Beta society and has visited in Janesville many times. Miss Walker was a guest at the residence of Mrs. E. D. Tallman, 449 N. Jackson, from Thursday until Saturday of last week and Mr. Tallman accompanied her to her home in Racine and is expected to return this evening. Owing to the recent death of Miss Walker's mother there will be no formal announcement of the engagement.

JANESVILLE MEN DO NOT ALWAYS BEHAVE

One Reported to Have Paid $500 for Protection in Milwaukee, the Other Loss $80 in Chicago.

It is just told above a whisper how one Janesville man visiting in Milwaukee recently was "milked" out of a five century note on the old, old "Badger game" and paid up without a murmur. As this game is being worked in the Cream City frequently the story is not surprising. The tale came to Janesville from a former resident who now makes his home there, and who professed to know all the details, which were rare and spicy. It is also told of a Janesville man who visited in Chicago recently and had his pocket picked of eighty dollars of his hard-earned cash while "visiting." Of course it would not do to mention names but they are both true stories beyond the question of a doubt.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

TOBACCO MEN BUSY RECEIVING CROPS

Farmers Making Deliveries Now on Previous Contracts—Several Big Trades Made.

This is the period of the year when the big tobacco deliveries are made throughout the country. On Tuesday last George M. Decker of Janesville and John Decker of Newark received one of the largest and best crops of the season at Clinton. It was raised by Albert Thorson of Clinton, better known as "the tobacco king," having thirteen acres. The weight of the crop was 23,412 pounds or a little better than 1,800 pounds to the acre. The price paid per pound was 11½ cents, which amounted to the snug little sum of $2,777.25.

The Edgerton Tobacco Reporter says the buyers are again riding the growing districts quite thoroughly and are quietly gathering up the unsold remnants of last season's crop. Prices seldom reach the top figures paid earlier for sections and the bulk of the sales range between the 6 and 8 cent mark. Growers, however, try to hold for a round price as it is a sort of established basis at which most of the crop has been sold. The American Tobacco company seem to have a winning offer for everything there can be taken during the coming season.

EXPOSES PLOT TO RUIN COTTON CROP

Speculators Plan to Infect Fields With Boll Weevil.

HAVE A MILLION INSECTS

Governor-Elect Smith, of Georgia, Warns Growers of South of Scheme of Two New Yorkers to Make Fortune.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 13.—Governor-Elect Hoke Smith gave out a statement exposing a plot of New York speculators to infect the cotton fields of Georgia and South Carolina with the dreadful boll weevil in order to be able to make a fortune in the market next season by reducing the crop and raising the price of Dixie's staple.

The first information came in a letter to Mr. Smith from a man, whose name he refuses to give, but in whom he places entire confidence. At Mr. Smith's request the writer came here from New York for a personal visit with the governor-elect.

Plan to Scatter Insects.

Convinced by the evidence offered by this informant, Governor-Elect Smith has given prompt warning to the farmers and the planters of the south that two plotters have in their possession at least 1,000,000 live boll weevils, and are waiting their opportunity to scatter these disastrous insects over Georgia and South Carolina.

The exposure has created the liveliest interest throughout Georgia, especially in view of the fact that no more than two months ago the exports of the country gathered at Atlanta to make plans for combating this insect. It has been traveling toward this state with alarming rapidity, and is now due to reach here in the natural course of events in less than two years' time. Unless this invasion is blocked, the loss to Georgia and Carolina will run into many millions a year.

To Fight Invasion.

After receiving the first letter Governor-Elect Smith at once communicated with Commissioner of Agriculture Hudson and State Entomologist Workman regarding plans to keep the boll weevil from the state.

According to the story of Governor-Elect Smith's informant, two men approached him in New Orleans and solicited his help in carrying out their scheme, by means of which they hoped to reap a fortune. Their idea was to flood Georgia and Carolina with the boll weevil and buy at once great quantities of October cotton, selling when the crop shortage sent prices higher at the expense of devastating the cotton fields of the two states for years to come.

The author of the letter says he knows to the two men that he would not reveal their names. Both he and Mr. Smith are of the opinion that the widespread publication and exposure of the scheme, putting the farmers on notice, will force the plotters to abandon their intention.

Big Reward for Murderers.

Reno, Nev., Feb. 13.—Gov. T. L. Odell announces that he will offer a reward of $5,000 for the murderers of Harry Campbell, J. H. Laxague, Peter Kramm and H. Indiana, cattlemen, whose bodies were found Saturday in Little High Rock canyon, Washoe county, Nevada.

Robber Captured by a Woman.

Denver, Col., Feb. 13.—After he had shot a patron of the White House cafe, whom he mistook for the cashier, a robber was captured by two women and held by them until the arrival of the police. The robber gave his name as Louis Wilson.

NEW ANESTHETIC IS SUCCESS

Young Girl, Under the Influence of Novatoin, Sings as Appendix is Cut Out.

Philadelphia, Feb. 13.—While Dr. W. Wayne Babcock at the Samaritan hospital operated on sixteen-year-old Edna Ford, an Atlantic City girl, for the removal of the appendix, the girl exchanged witty repartee with the nurses and surgeons grouped about the operating table and finally burst into song.

The young patient was under the influence of novatoin, an anesthetic which is the private prescription of Dr. Babcock, and similar to stovaine, which paralyzes the sense of feeling, but does not make the patient unconscious.

Physicians who were present say the operation also was a triumph for the anesthetic.

SIMEON FARWELL IS DEAD

Chicago Pioneer and President of Large Dry Goods Concern Succumbs to Long Illness.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Simeon Farwell, eighty years old, president of John V. Farwell & Co. and one of the oldest residents of Evanston, Ill., died after an illness which attacked him in September, 1910, since which time he practically had been an invalid. Last November one of Mr. Farwell's limbs was amputated in hopes that his life might be prolonged, but he never recovered from the shock of the operation.

Mr. Farwell was one of the pioneer settlers and business men of Chicago, having located in the city in 1849.

MARSHAL BAZAINE BORN CENTURY AGO

France, However, Refused To Observe Anniversary Of Distinguished General.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Paris, Feb. 13.—Today saw the centenary of the birth of Marshal Bazaine, who played a most conspicuous part in the history of the last half of the nineteenth century. In the New World as well as in the Old, born at Versailles, Feb. 13, 1811, Bazaine served brilliantly in Algeria, and in Spain against the Carlists. He commanded the foreign legion in the Crimean war and a few years later he was in the Italian campaign, where he won distinction at the battle of Solferino. He not only took part in the expedition to Mexico, but he was made commander-in-chief of the army there in 1863. But notwithstanding this brilliant record of service for his country, the one hundredth anniversary of the famous marshal's birth was allowed to pass absolutely unnoticed. For France has never forgotten nor forgiven the fact that it was Bazaine who surrendered Metz to the Germans, though unrepentant historians are generally agreed that the marshal was a victim of the weakness, pride and incapacity of Napoleon III. For his surrender of Metz Bazaine was tried and condemned to death, but this sentence was changed to imprisonment for 20 years. He was sent to the island of Marguerite, off the southern coast of France, from which he finally made his escape and got safely to Madrid, where he spent his remaining days.

TAILOR'S CONVENTION AND STYLE SHOW IN WASHINGTON

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 13.—Several hundred tailors and their wives from many of the large cities throughout the country, each attired in the newest creations in wearing apparel, gathered in the capital today for the annual convention of the National Association of Merchant Tailors and National Style Show, which is being held in connection with the convention. One of the interesting features of the show is the display of cloths with the comparative cost of each fabric under the various tariff laws of the last three decades, the purpose being to demonstrate the relation of the tariff to the price of a suit of clothing.

SCIENCE HEALER IN TOILS

New York Magistrate Holds Practitioner Violator of Law—Says License Is Needed.

New York, Feb. 13.—Christian Scientist received a blow when Magistrate Frosch held trial in special sessions. William Vernon Cole, charged with practicing medicine without a license, Cole was arrested after he had treated a woman. Upon payment of a sum of money, it is alleged Cole prayed over her and told her she would soon get well.

Magistrate Frosch in holding Cole said: "I am of the opinion that the treatment of disease by inaudible prayer is a violation of the laws of this state. The Christian Scientist has the right to believe that he can heal by prayer, but I am of the opinion that if he carries and puts that belief into practice for hire, then he exceeds his rights as an individual under the law and comes directly within the prohibition contained in the constitution of the state of New York."

TWO KILLED BY LIVE WIRES

Reporter Blain While Seeking to Discover Alleged Frauds—Engineer Dies Trying to Recover Body.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Seeking for evidence that the county had been defrauded on coal deliveries, James J. McCabe, a reporter for Chicago Examiner was electrocuted in power house 91 of the drainage board.

While endeavoring to recover the body of McCabe, Frederick Fitzpatrick, assistant engineer at the county hospital was killed instantly, and Thomas Mahon, superintendent of the county morgue, was blown against a wall of the building by the shock.

McCabe went to the power house which is located in the grounds of the county hospital and in the same building with the weighmaster of the hospital, and met his death while peering through a window in an effort to discover evidence of wrongdoing. He supposedly stepped too close to the dangerous electrical machinery.

The Postoffice, The Popular Magazines, and the People

A provision has been added to the Postoffice Appropriation Bill by the Senate Postoffice committee without proper notice or public hearing. It provides for an unjust, discriminatory and confiscatory tax on the popular magazines. By attaching this provision to the Postoffice Appropriation Bill at the eleventh hour, all opportunity for open discussion and consideration by the people, the publishers and the Senate was cut off. It was an un-American star chamber proceeding, accomplished under presidential and political coercion. If this bill is passed with the provision which practically exempts from taxation magazines which have not spoken boldly on public questions, many of the popular periodicals will be put out of business altogether and the others without exception will be seriously crippled. Even if it were possible for the magazines to continue in business under these new conditions, the people would derive no benefit from the measure, for until the Postoffice department is taken out of politics and a businesslike management installed it is improbable that any additional revenue collected will be used economically. We urge every friend of honest politics, economical government and a free press to telegraph or write an immediate protest to their Senators and Representatives.

BELIEVES IN WHIPPING POST

Salem, Ore., Feb. 13.—Governor West vetoed a bill adopted by the legislature abolishing the whipping post.

"While the whipping post is a relic of barbarism," said the governor, "it is no more barbaric than wife beating, and I deem it wise to have on Oregon's statute books a barbaric punishment for brutes who fall so low as to strike and abuse a woman."

An effort will be made to pass the bill over the governor's veto.

In spite of the fact that it has been repeatedly defeated at the polls, the legislature adopted a constitutional amendment submitting to the voters the question of granting equal suffrage to women.

LOVE me and tell me so sometimes."—Gail Hamilton.

"You," this time, means all my married folk friends, and especially those married folk who've been married for over five years. I want you before February fourteenth to go out and buy a valentine and I want you to carefully disguise your handwriting just as you used to do, and I want you to send it to your wife or husband.

Next door to me there lives one of those beautiful couples who through sickness and health, through failures, discouragements and successes, through child bearing, child rearing and child marrying, and straight into the grandparent stage, have carried enough romance so that they do this little thing every year.

And not only do they, but take as much genuine delight in the doing as the little boy across the street when he drops the lace and gift creation that so chivalrously declares,

"The rose is red, the violet's blue,
Sugar is sweet, and so are you,"

at his little lady love's front gate, and runs and hides around the corner and crouches against the house with his heart almost exploding with excitement and two buttons getting rubbed off his coat.

The way I happen to know about it is that last year the lady next door was ill, and to me was entrusted the solemn mission of buying and mailing that valentine. I thought at first I'd tell you about it right off and then I decided to wait until this year so I could be fresher in your minds.

St. Valentine's day is supposed to be a young lovers' day, but I think it would be much more beautiful if it were made an old lovers' day, too. In fact it seems to me it ought to be especially for the older lovers, for the young lovers don't need the reminder of any special day to make them confide in each other about that wonderful feeling—"that itching of the heart that can't be scratched," as someone has unpoetically but graphically called it—which they have within them.

They're doing that all the time.

While the old lovers—well, they may be loving each other just as deeply, but I guess they are more apt to forget the last part of Gail Hamilton's advice, "Love me AND TELL ME SO SOMETIMES."

And isn't this a beautiful time to remember it?

Of course I don't insist that you shall confine yourself to a gift and love valentine or a pair of gloves, or whatever he wants the most if I'm talking to the lady in the case, and put a little valentine verse in with the gift.

Only you mustn't omit the verse. And you mustn't fail to have it say, "I love you," just as sweetly and foolishly as the verses you used to send in the days before.

Of course you know the old Navy Toast:

"Here's to our sweethearts and wives,
May our sweethearts soon be our wives,
And our wives always be our sweethearts."

Don't you think St. Valentine's day is a good time to get some of the spirit of that toast into your lives?

SPRING MOTOR BONNET.

Included in the early hat displays for Southern wear are some chic motor-bonnets of silk which remind one forcibly of the old-time shaker bonnet. They are, however, attractive and totally different from the many freakish models put out last year. The crown of draped silk falls over a bunch of loops of satin ribbon at back and on top there is a spreading bow of ribbon which serves as trimming. Plain silks and plain ribbons are the favored combination.

Dominoes.

Have a plain cake baked in thin sheets and cut into small oblong pieces the size and shape of a domino, a trifle larger; frost the tops and sides; when the frosting is cold, draw the black lines and make the dots, with a soft brush dipped in melted chocolate. These are nice for children's parties.

Custard Pie.

Beat together till light four eggs with four tablespoonsful of sugar, then add one pint of milk and one teaspoonful of orange extract. Line a deep pie plate with a rich pastry, pour in the custard, place in a moderately hot oven, and bake until the pastry is brown and the custard firm. Serve hot or cold.

PNEUMONIA DANGER.

A case of death from typhoid pneumonia is reported from a southern woman's college December 6, as a result of eating delicacies sent from home. When the system is overloaded with waste matter due to superfluous or improper food and vital resistance is lowered, pneumonia is easily precipitated in cold and damp weather. Hundreds who die of pneumonia during the winter and early spring could be saved by a simpler diet, more regular and moderate outdoor exercise, avoiding exhaustion and worry or undue excitement. It must not be supposed that disease can be avoided by simply avoiding the germ that differentiates diseases or hastens the degenerative process due to accumulation of waste matter, bad mental conditions, deficient exercise, lack of proper food. It is impossible to avoid the germs that are incident to disease.

The Katherine Kip Editorial.

DON'T BE A NOISY GRASSHOPPER.

"Because half a dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate chirp, while thousands of great cattle, reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field; that, of course, they are many in number, or that, after all, they are other than the little derelict, meager, hopping, thoughtless and troublesome insects of the hour," said Edmund Burke.

All of us know the type of person who is meant to indicate the person who is noisy and blustering and who thinks he can create an impression of industry and importance by being so. It must be admitted that there is something in the old saying that "If you do not blow your own horn no one will," but there is such a thing as overdoing it.

Noise is no real sign of industry or ability. We all know that the old, rickety creaking wagon has passed its days of usefulness or it would not be so noisy. The machine knows that the moment a piece of machinery begins to be noisy there is something wrong. It has either broken somewhere or has deteriorated. He knows that when the machine is doing good work it keeps up a steady musical hum, and that very hum is an indication of power and of ability to accomplish.

The boy who is noisier in school, who makes the most stir in handling his books or in going to or from his classes, isn't the best scholar by any means. His attitude towards his associates precludes that. So in business or any other walk of life, the noisy man isn't the one who is doing the most work or making the greatest success. It's the fellow who works silently and efficiently.

It is easy to see that John Smith has no "real ability," and that he is never likely to "get on his feet," but it is rather disconcerting to wake up some day and find that this same unimportant John Smith has accomplished something worth while, and it is also interesting to note that James Jones, who has always been looked upon as the brilliant member of the community, never gets any higher than the position he secured rather early in life, the handling of which first impressed people with his brilliancy.

The trouble has been that after James landed a couple of good things he became a noisy little grasshopper under the fern of his own self-importance. Smith may have heard the noise he made, but if he had paid no heed unless it was to resolve not to do likewise but keep right on with his own work. When he did finally succeed in accomplishing what he went after there was no need for him to make a noise. Others did that for him. And this is an important thing to remember in our daily work.

Fish Salads for Lent.

Any kind of fish can be acceptably served as a salad, that which is boiled being generally preferred. In boiling, add a small quantity of vinegar, it will make the fish more firm and tender. Fish salads require the addition of acids, lemon juice being the most acceptable addition.

Herring Salad With Potatoes.

Wash four salt herring and soak in milk several hours, then drain; remove the fillets and sides and cut in pieces. Cut four small potatoes which have been boiled, half the quantity of apples, a beet and a pickled cucumber. Mix all together, sprinkle with chopped chives and parsley; add salt, pepper and vinegar, decorate with hard-boiled eggs.

Household Hints.

For an afternoon tea, macaroons with thinly-sliced sage cheese between is a delicious dainty.

Every kitchen should be supplied with plenty of soft soap. It can be made in the home.

Steel forks and knives should be cleaned with scouring brick after each meal.

Never dry mending boards or chopping bowls by the fire after washing, as they are so apt to warp and crack if exposed to dry heat while wet.

To remove the odor of onion from wooden or other dishes, fill with cold water, adding a tablespoonful of washing soda to a quart of water. Soak for a while, then heat the water boiling hot and use it to flush the sink pipes. In this way the soda answers two purposes.

Cool bread and cake on racks made for the purpose, or one may be improvised. Covering bread with a cloth allows it to sweat, and this often spoils the flavor.

Irish Hash.

Take cold meat, put through grinder, and one small onion (if liked), mix this with gravy, season with salt and pepper, do not make too soft with gravy. Should be "about the same as mince-meat." Put on platter and mashed potatoes around the sides first, then over top. Gravy with hard boiled eggs and lettuce. This is most delicious, if correctly made. If you don't have any left over gravy put a piece of butter in frying pan and a spoonful of flour, brown, and add water to make thick gravy. Add more butter to make it rich. This can be served for luncheon or omit the eggs and serve with vegetables for dinner.

Nut Chowder.

Take one-half pound of mixed nut meats which have been broken into small pieces. Put them in a saucepan and allow them to simmer for an hour and thirty minutes. Peel and dice several potatoes, a turnip, and a good sized onion. Have a pint of canned or stewed tomatoes. Line the bottom of a kettle with a layer of potatoes, add a layer of the turnip and onion with a sprinkling of thyme, sweet marjoram, chopped parsley and salt, then a layer of tomatoes, and lastly the nut meats. Let simmer 30 minutes, then add one pint of milk and a little thickening.

Harrison Cake.

Two eggs well beaten, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, one cup melted butter, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda dissolved in the milk, two cups raisins, one teaspoon salt, cinnamon and allspice to suit the taste, four cups of flour stirred in a little at a time. This makes two loaves.

Baked Egg Plant.

Peel the egg plant, cut a piece from the top, take out the seeds, fill the cavity with a dressing as for ducks, replace the top piece and bake one hour, basting with a spoonful of butter in a cup of hot water, afterward dredging with flour. Serve immediately.

Truth Before All.

Herodotus tells us, in the first book of his history, that from the age of five to that of twenty, the ancients instructed their children only on three things, namely: to manage a horse, to shoot dexterously with their bows, and to speak the truth. The study of truth is perpetually joined with virtue; there is no virtue which does not derive its original from truth, just as there is no vice which does not spring from a lie.

Birds' Powers of Flight.

It has been calculated that a gliding bird, at a height of 1,200 yards, at the moment when it commences to descend with motionless wings, can by settling them at the most favorable angle touch the ground at a horizontal distance of about 15 miles! If the wind fall, large birds can always, with a few wing beats, attain an altitude where they will find a wind which will permit them to continue their journey "on the glide."

Starting with the axiom that a given area of the sea can nourish only a limited amount of fish, a British expert points out that if the methods of capture tell more heavily on one kind than on another, it is quite probable that valuable species may be largely depleted by inferior ones. This seems to be the condition of affairs in the North sea, where the worthless dab is increasing at the expense of the plaice.

The Great Conservation
Novel

By HAMLIN GARLAND

Copyright, 1910, by Hamlin Garland

"Chilled, shivering and numb, he set spurs to his horse and rode furiously down the trail toward the nearest town, so eager to spread the alarm that he could scarcely breathe a deep breath. On the steep slopes he was forced to walk, and his horse led so badly that his agony of impatience was deepened. He had a vision of the murderers riding into far countries. Each hour made their apprehension progressively the more difficult."

"Who were they?" he asked himself again and again. "What kind of man did this thing? Was the leader a man like Hallard? Even so, he was hired. By whom? By ranchers covetous of the range; that was absolutely certain."

"It was long after noon before he came to the end of the telephone line in a little store and postoffice at the upper falls of Deer creek. The telephone had a booth fortunately, and he soon had Redfield's ear, but his voice was so strained and unnatural that his chief did not recognize it."

"Is that you, Ross? What's the matter? Your voice sounds hoarse."

Ross composed himself and told his story briefly. "I'm at Kettle Ranch postoffice. Now listen. The limit of the gentleman's ferocity has been reached. As I rode down here to get into communication with a doctor for a sick herder I came upon the scene of another murder and burning. The fire is still smoldering. At least two bodies are in the embers."

"At last, bit by bit, from hurried speech, the supervisor derived the fact, the location, the hour, and directed the herder to ride back and guard the remains till the sheriff arrived."

"Keep it all quiet," warned Ross, "and get the sheriff and a doctor to come up here as quick as you can. What is this country coming to?" he cried in despair. "Will this deed go unpunished like the rest?"

Redfield's voice had lost its optimism. "I don't know; I am stunned by it all. Don't do anything rash, Ross. Wait till I come. Perhaps this is the turning point out here. I'll be up at the earliest moment."

"The frightened and disheartened ranger then called up Leo Virginia, and the sound of her sweet voice turned his thoughts to other and in a sense more important matters, for when she heard his name she cried out with such eager longing and appeal that his heart leaped. "Oh, I wish you were here! Mother has been worse today. She is asking for you. Can't you come down and see us? She wants to tell you something."

"I can't—I can't," he stammered. "I—I'm a long way off, and I have important work to do. Tell her I will come tomorrow. Dear girl, there is a sick man far up on the mountain side with no one to care for him but a poor old herder who is in danger of falling sick himself. I must go back to them; but, believe me, I will come just as soon as my duties will let me. You understand me, don't you?"

Her voice was fainter as she said, "Yes, but I—I seem hard to wait."

"I know. Your voice has helped me. I was in a black mood when I came here. I'm going back now to do my work, and then I will come to you, Goodby."

Strangely beautiful and very subtle was the vibrant air of that wire as it conveyed back to his ear the little sigh with which she made answer to his plea. He took his way upward in a mood which was meditative, but no longer bitter.

CHAPTER XV.

SHADOWS ON THE MIST.

THE decision which Cavanagh made between love and duty distinguished the officer from the man, the soldier from the civilian. He did not hesitate to act, and yet he suffered a mental conflict as he rode back toward the scene of that inhuman sacrifice on the altar of greed.

"It will be hours before any part of the sheriff's posse can reach the falls, even though they take to the swiftest motors, and then other long hours must intervene before I can ride down to her. Yes, at least a day and a night must drag their slow course before I can hope to be of service to her." And the thought drew a groan of anxiety from him. At such moments of mental stress, the trail is a torture and the mountain side an inexorable barrier.

Halfway to the hills he was intercepted by an old man who was at work on an irrigating ditch beside the road. He seemed very nervous and very inquisitive, and as he questioned the ranger his eyes were like those of a dog that fears his master's hand. Ross wondered about this afterward, but at the moment his mind was busy with the significance of this patient toiler with a spade. He was a prophetic figure in the most picturesque and sterile land of the stockman. "Here, within twenty miles of this peaceful fruit grower," he said, "is the crowning infamy of the freebooting cowboy."

He wondered as he rode on whether the papers of the state would make a jest of this deed. "Will this be made the theme for gaudy comment in the eastern press for a day and then be forgotten?"

As his hot blood cooled he lost faith in even this sacrifice. Could anything change the leopard west into the tameness and serenity of the east? "No," he decided; "nothing but death will do that. This generation, these fierce and bloody herds, must die. Only in that way can the tradition of violence be overcome and a new state reared."

At the foot of the tollhouse, upward winding trail he dismounted and led his weary horse. Over his head and about halfway to the first hilltop lay a roof of fleecy vapor, faint purple in color and seamless in texture. Through this he must pass, and it symbolized to him the line of demarcation between the plain and the mountain, between order and violence.

Slowly he led his horse along the mountain side, grasping with eager desire at every changing aspect of the marvelous mountain scene. It was infinitely more gorgeous, more compelling, than his moonlight experience the night before.

As he led his horse out upon a projecting point of rocky ledge to rest his love for the range came back upon him with such power that tears misted his eyes and his throat heaved. "Where else will I find such scenes of this?" he asked himself. "Where in all the lowlands could such splendors shine? How can I leave this high world in which these wonders come and go? I will not! Here will I bring my bride and build my home. This is my world."

But the mist grew gray, the aureole of fire faded, the sun went down behind the hills, and the chill of evening deepened on the trail, and as he approached the scene of man's inhumanity to man the thought of camping there beside those charred limbs called for heroic resolution. He was hungry, too, and as the air plucked he shivered.

"At the best the sheriff cannot reach here before midnight," he said, and settled down to his unsought, revolting vigil.

His one relief lay in the mental composition of a long letter to Leo Virginia, whose life at that moment was a comfort to him. "If such purity, such sweetness, can come from violence and vulgarly then surely a new and splendid state can rise even out of the ashes of these murdered men. Perhaps this is the end of the old," he mused, "perhaps this is the beginning of the new," and as he pondered the last faint crimson died out of the west. "So must the hate and violence die out of America," he said, "leaving the clear, sweet air of liberty behind."

He was near to the poet at the moment, for he was also the lover. His allegiance to the great republic stood the test. His faith in democracy was shaken, but not destroyed. "I will wait," he decided. "This shall be the sign. If this deed goes unavenged then will I put off my badge and my uniform and go back to the land where for a hundred years at least such deeds as these have been impossible."

He built a fire as a defense against the cold. He felt himself weirdly remote in this vigil. From his far height he looked abroad upon the tumbled plain as if upon an ocean dimly perceptible, yet august. "At this moment," he said, "curious and perhaps guilty eyes are wondering what my spark of firelight may mean."

His mind went again and again to that tall old man in the ditch. What was the meaning of his scared and sorrowful glance? Why should one so peacefully employed at such a time and in such a place wear the look of a hunted deer? What meant the tremor in his voice?

Was it possible that one so gentle should have taken part in this deed? "Preposterous suspicion, and yet he had a guilty look."

At last, far in the night, he heard the snort of a horse and the sound of wheels. The law came as it was creeping up the mountain side in the person of the sheriff of Chauvenet county and was about to relieve the ranger from his painful responsibility as guardian of the dead.

At last he came, this officer of the law, attended like a Cheyenne chief by a dozen lesser warriors of various conditions and kinds, but among them—indeed, second only to the sheriff—was Hugh Redfield, the forest supervisor, hot and eager with haste.

As they rode up to the fire the officer called out: "Howdy, ranger? How about it?"

Ross stated briefly, succinctly, what he had discovered, and as he talked other riders came up the hill and gathered closely around to listen in wordless silence—in gaily silence, the ranger could not help believing.

Redfield spoke. "Sheriff Van Horne, you and I have been running cattle in this country for nearly thirty years, and we've witnessed all kinds of shooting and several kinds of hanging, but when it comes to chopping and burning men I get off. I shall personally offer a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of these miscreants, and I hope you'll make it your solemn duty to hunt them to earth."

"You won't have far to go," remarked Ross significantly.

"What do you mean?" asked the sheriff.

"I mean this slaughter, like the others that have taken place, was the work of cattlemen who claim this range. Their names are known to us all."

A silence followed—so deep a silence that the ranger was convinced of the fact that in the circle of his listeners stood those who, if they had not shared in the slaughter, at least knew the names of the guilty men.

At last the sheriff spoke, this time with a sigh. "I hope you're all wrong, Cavanagh. I'd hate to think any constable of mine had sanctioned this job. Give me that lantern, Corbin."

The group of ranchers dismounted and followed the sheriff over to the gruesome spot, but Redfield stayed with the ranger.

DATE AND FIGS.

Frugal Fare of the Desert Wanderers of the East.

While journeying across the desert Mrs. A. Goodrich-Freer, author of "In a Syrian Saddle," met a lonely traveler bound for Mecca. On hearing that the caravan was bound for the same place he asked permission to join them. Incidentally he furnished an illustration of the difference between necessities and luxuries.

We were very grateful, says the writer, for coffee and an excellent lunch of sausage, potted meat and jam, with white bread, brought from Jerusalem. We ate our dainties with some sense of guilt, as the newcomer produced his lunch of dates and figs. Dates and figs, he informed us, were the natural food of desert wanderers, sustaining to the body, stimulating to the mind. The wheat, the flesh, above all the alcohol of civilization, were mere luxuries.

Was it not diet such as this—and he waved a pair of sensitive hands over his ascetic lunch—which had enabled him to reply to the inquiry of a personage as to how many hours a day he could ride in the desert, "Twenty-four, your majesty, since a day does not contain twenty-five?"

Was it not on a diet of figs and dates that he had ridden sixty hours without dismounting? Was it your meat, water, your wine, your drink, your remnant of sound and wholesome when necessity obliged him to refrain from abstinence for twenty-one days?

At this point he carefully counted his date stones, observed that two more were yet due to his appetite and finished his frugal luncheon.

ONLY A TRAMP.

Raising the Curtain For a Moment on One of Life's Tragedies.

A recent incident which holds in its simple outlines the possibility of just tragedy is described in the New York Times. It is another illustration of how careless the world is of the individual and how thick is the cloak which one may wrap about his personality. Not long ago a laborer employed by the Erie railroad in Jersey City was run over by a train and had his leg cut off.

A policeman telephoned for an ambulance. The injured man lay on a grass patch, apparently bleeding to death. Just then a typical railroad tramp in dirty rags wandered along. He tapped a policeman's elbow.

"May I ask what's the matter, officer?" he inquired.

"Man bleeding to death," replied the policeman.

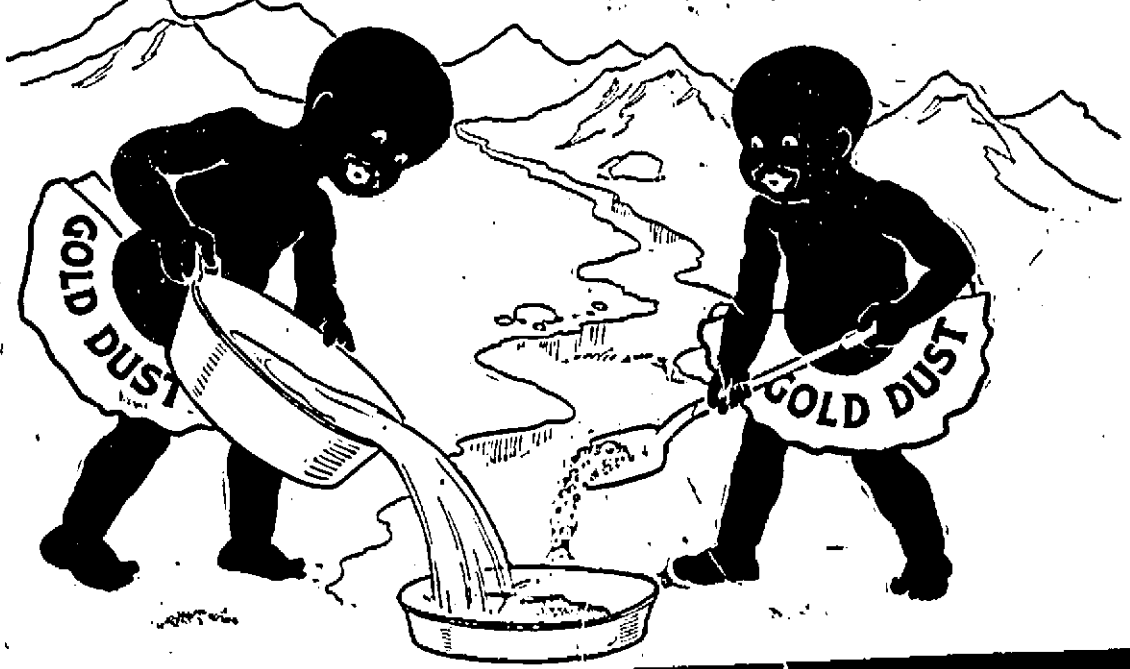

"Would you mind if I looked at him?" asked the tramp. "I might be of service."

"Go ahead," responded the officer. Bending low over the wounded laborer, the tramp asked for water to wash his hands and then begged the crowd for clean handkerchiefs. With a half dozen soft, rapid towels, he made a tourniquet and stopped the flow of blood.

"Are you a doctor?" some one asked as the man slipped away through the crowd.

"I need to be," he replied as he hurried off.

GOLD DUST IS PAY-DIRT FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Gold Dust is to the housewife what "Pay-dirt" is to the miner. Read the unsolicited testimonial which Stewart Edward White recently gave Gold Dust in his book "The Mountains," Page 181:

"Even if you do not intend to wash dishes; bring along some Gold Dust. It is much simpler in getting at odd corners of obstinate kettles than any soap. All you have to do is to boil some of it in that kettle and the utensil is tamed at once."

When a work-dodging man has to wash dishes you may be sure he is going to find "the easiest way." Mr. White evidently found it in the use of Gold Dust. More than a million housewives agree with him; you will if you once try Gold Dust.

Gold Dust cleans everything—read directions on the package for a full list of its accomplishments.

Use Gold Dust for washing clothes and dishes, scrubbing floors, cleaning woodwork, oil-cloth, silverware and tinware, polishing brasswork, cleaning bathroom pipes, refrigerators, etc., softening hard water and making the finest soft soap.

Gold Dust is sold in 5c size and large packages. The large package offers greater economy.

Patriotism in the Making.

Patriotism in New York is cosmopolitan. They have a flag drill in the schools in which the children of every race and class, as the hymn book says, are taught to salute the stars and stripes and give "their heads, their hands and their hearts to their country." And in some of the big downtown schools you may see children from homes German, Italian, Syrian, Scandinavian, Jewish, Hungarian, Chinese, Armenian, Greek and heaven knows how many other nationalities all joining in this picturesque ceremony. It gives one a realizing sense of the variety of material which it put into this crucible we call a city and which in another generation or two will be simply American.—Boston Transcript.

Talking Through the Nose.

So called "talking through the nose" is not talking through the nose at all, but rather failure to do so—that is, instead of letting the tone flood into the nasal cavity, to be re-enforced there by striking against the walls of the cavity, which act as sounding boards for the tone confined within that cavity, we shut off the cavity and refuse the tone its natural re-enforcement. It takes on as a result a thin, unresonant quality which we call nasal, although it is thin and unpleasant because it lacks true nasal resonance. The only remedy lies in ceasing to shut off the cavity.—Katherine Jewell Exerts in Harper's Bazar.

Frog's Narrow Escape.

A correspondent writes: "My son, aged ten and a half years, was working in the garden when a viper about two feet long glided past him. A good shot with a stone, about the size of a cricket ball broke the reptile's spine, with a sharp edge of the granite cut open the belly, thereby restoring to freedom a frog, which hopped out of the prison unhurt."—Madras Mail.

Speaking.

"Did you think Miss Jenkins has speaking eyes?"

"I'm sure I don't know," replied the young lady. "If she had, her mouth wouldn't give them a chance to be heard."—Chicago Record-Herald.

How To Surely Get Rid Of Rheumatism

Phenomenal Results Of Positive Antidote To Uric Acid.

The first dose or two of the positive antidote found for uric acid, gives immediate relief in all forms of rheumatism, gout, lumbago and this statement is true.

Kidney trouble, and quickly brings on a cure. Every man and woman who has already tried it knows that this statement is true.

This antidote, called the "Pain-Relieving Cure," has already cured over 1,000 cases of rheumatism. An illustration, it cured Mrs. Mary E. Thorne of Owosso, Mich., 37 years old, of a 14-year case of rheumatism in 3 days. It cured John Kennedy, the well-known "lumber" tailor of Flint, Mich., of an excruciating case of rheumatism in 3 days. And many other cases have proven that it is the world's cure for rheumatism.

The "Pain-Relieving Cure" is a powerful, safe, and effective remedy, free from opium, morphine, alcohol, cocaine, ether, chloroform or alcohol, and is guaranteed as to the United States Government. "Pain-Relieving Cure" sold at $2.00 per bottle, with full directions, or will be sent prepaid on receipt of $2.00 per bottle for $2.00, by the Pain-Relieving Cure Co., Flint, Mich.

CHILDREN INJURED

Ordinary Cathartics and Pills and Harsh Physio Cause Distressing Complaints.

You cannot be over-careful in the selection of medicine for children. Only the very gentlest bowel medicine should ever be given, except in emergency cases. Ordinary pills, cathartics and purgatives are apt to do more harm than good. They cause griping, nausea and vomiting, and are frequently health-destroying and a life-lasting annoyance. We personally recommend and guarantee laxative Remedies as the safest and most dependable remedy for constipation and associated bowel disorders. We have such absolute faith in the virtues of this remedy that we will let our guarantee of money back in every instance where it fails to give entire satisfaction, and we urge all in need of such medicine to try it at our risk.

Relaxall Orderlies are eaten like candy. They are particularly prompt and agreeable in action, may be taken at any time, day or night; do not cause drowsiness, nausea, griping, excessive looseness or other undesirable effects. They have a very natural action upon the glands and organs with which they come in contact, act as a positive and regulative tonic upon the relaxed muscular coat, of the bowel and its dry mucous lining; remove irritation, overcome weakness, tone and strengthen the nerves and muscles, and restore the bowels and associated organs to more vigorous and healthy activity.

Relaxall Orderlies completely relieve constipation, except when of a surgical character. They also tend to overcome the necessity of constantly taking laxatives to keep the bowels in normal condition. Two sizes of packages, 10 cents and 25 cents. Remember you can obtain Relaxall Remedies in Jansville only at our store.—The Relaxall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

Loosens Tight Coughs.

Home-Made Cough Syrup.

Here is the cheapest and most powerfully effective cough cure known to medical science. Buy of your druggist, or have him order it from the wholesale manufacturer. In the package is full directions for making a splendid laxative, emollient cough syrup. This amount makes a full pint at a saving of from $2 to $3 as compared with ordinary labeled cough syrups, and it is really better to cure because it rids the system of the cold and cough by its laxative action.

It is no trouble to make, just buy the ingredients and make a syrup according to directions accompanying. This is the formula.

Essence mentholated sugar . . . 2 1/2 Ozs.
Granulated sugar syrup . . . 1 1/2 Ozs.
Directions tell how to prepare the syrup at home. It is certainly a blessing for old people and loosens the tightest cough in an hour, while children like to take it, and it prevents pneumonia, fever and lung complications by its tonic and laxative action due to its ability to actually loosen the cough and penetrating the tissues of throat and lungs with its curative properties.

ONE BIG FOOL

But He Doesn't Live in Jansville Nor Read The Gazette.

A man in Connecticut gave a doctor, a specialist in catarrh, $50 to cure him of this common yet most obnoxious disease.

The specialist gave him a bottle of medicine and told him to use it. "The fool took the medicine home, took out the cork, put it on a shelf and made no further effort to follow instructions."

Three months later with the medicine still on the shelf he told a friend that the specialist was a fake; that he had paid him $50 and still had catarrh. HYOMEL (pronounce it High-ome) won't cure catarrh if you don't breathe it; it will if you breathe it regularly.

Furthermore, you don't need to give a catarrh specialist $50 to cure you of catarrh, for the specialist is yet to be born who can write a better prescription than HYOMEL.

The People's Drug Co. and druggists everywhere guarantee HYOMEL to cure catarrh or money back. A complete outfit which consists of a bottle of HYOMEL, a hard rubber inhaler and simple instructions for use costs only $1.00. Separate bottle of HYOMEL if afterwards needed cost 50 cents.

Baking Powder Biscuits

Light as a Feather

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Baking Powder Biscuits made by this recipe are so far ahead of ordinary baking powder biscuits that, if once tried, you will never use any other recipe. Try it the next time you run short of bread. Save this recipe.

K C Baking Powder Biscuits

Three cups flour; 1/2 to 3/4 cup shortening; 3 level teaspoons K C Baking Powder; about 1 cup milk or water; 1 teaspoon salt.

Sift three times, the flour, salt and baking powder. Work into the flour the shortening, using lard or butter for shortening. Then mix to a very soft dough with the milk. The softer the biscuit enters the oven, the lighter it comes out. Never knead baking powder biscuits; press the dough into shape and roll lightly. Cut in small shapes and bake on a sheet or very shallow pan in a hot oven. In placing biscuits in the pan place well apart, not allowing edges to touch. Small biscuits are better than large ones. Large biscuits do not have the proper amount of time to raise and bake.

"Have you seen the new K C Cook's Book? It's full of appetizing recipes that simply make successful every time if the few simple directions are carefully followed. You would really pay 50 cents for this valuable book, yet we send it absolutely free upon receipt of the enclosed ticket posted in every 25-cent K C Baking Powder package. Agents: J. H. WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

LOVE me and tell me so sometimes."
—Gail Hamilton.
I want you to do something for me.
"You," this time, means all my married folk friends, and especially those married folk who've been married for over five years.
I want you before February fourteenth to go out and buy a valentine and I want you to carefully disguise your handwriting just as you used to do, and I want you to send it to your wife or husband.

Next door to me there lives one of those beautiful couples who through sickness and health, through failures, discouragements and successes, through child bearing, child rearing and child marring, and straight into the grandparent stage, have carried enough romance so that they do this little thing every year.

And not only do it, but take as much genuine delight in the doing as the little boy across the street when he drops the lace and gift creation that so chastely declares, "The rose is red, the violet's blue, sugar is sweet, and so are you," at his little lady love's front gate, and runs and hides around the corner and crouches against the house with his heart almost exploding with excitement and two buttons getting rubbed off his coat.

The way I happen to know about it is that last year the lady next door was ill, and to me was entrusted the solemn mission of buying and mailing that valentine. I thought at first I'd tell you about it right off and then I decided to wait until this year so it would be fresher in your minds.

St. Valentine's day is supposed to be a young lovers' day, but I think it would be much more beautiful if it were made an old lovers' day, too. In fact it seems to me it ought to be especially for the older lovers, for the young lovers don't need the reminder of any special day to make them confide in each other about that wonderful feeling—that feeling of the heart that can be scratched, as someone has unpoetically but graphically called it—which they have with them.

They're doing that all the time. While the old lovers—well they may be loving each other just as deeply, but I guess they are more apt to forget the last part of Gail Hamilton's advice, "Love me AND TELL ME SO SOMETIMES."

And isn't this a beautiful time to remember it? Of course I don't insist that you shall confide yourself to a gift and lace valentine. I'll be quite as well satisfied if you go out and buy a bunch of violets or a pair of gloves, or whatever he wants the most if I'm talking to the lady in the case, and put a little valentine verse in with the gift.

Only you mustn't omit the verse. And you mustn't fail to have it say, "I love you," just as sweetly and foolishly as the verses you used to send in the days before.

Of course you know the old Navy Toast:
"Here's to our sweethearts and wives,
May our sweethearts soon be our wives,
And our wives always be our sweethearts."

Don't you think St. Valentine's day is a good time to get some of the spirit of that toast into your lives?

SPRING MOTOR BONNET.

Included in the early hat displays for Southern wear are some chic motor-bonnets of silk which remind one forcibly of the old-time shaker bonnet. They are, however, attractive and totally different from the many freakish models put out last year. The crown of draped silk falls over a bunch of loops of satin ribbon at back and on top there is a spreading bow of ribbon which serves as trimming. Plain silks and plain ribbons are the favored combination.

Dominoes.

Have a plain cake baked in thin sheets and cut into small oblong pieces the size and shape of a domino, a trifle larger; frost the tops and sides; when the frosting is cold, draw the black lines and make the dots, with a soft brush dipped in melted chocolate. These are nice for children's parties.

Custard Pie.

Beat together till light four eggs with four tablespoons of sugar, then add one pint of milk and one teaspoon of orange extract. Line a deep pie plate with a rich pastry, pour in the custard, place in a moderately hot oven, and bake until the pastry is brown and the custard firm. Serve hot or cold.

Use of Lime in Cellar.

A box of lime in an out-of-the-way corner of the cellar helps to keep the atmosphere dry and pure.

DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

PNEUMONIA DANGER.

A case of death from typhoid pneumonia is reported from a southern woman's college December 8, as a result of eating delicacies sent from home. When the system is overloaded with waste matter due to superfluous or improper food and vital resistance is lowered, pneumonia is easily precipitated in cold and damp weather. Hundreds who die of pneumonia during the winter and early spring could be saved by a simpler diet, more regular and moderate outdoor exercise, avoiding exhaustion and worry or undue excitement. It must not be supposed that disease can be avoided by simply avoiding the germ that differentiates disease or hastens the degenerative process due to accumulation of waste matter, bad mental conditions, deficient exercise, lack of proper food. It is impossible to avoid the germs that are incident to disease.

Irish Hash.
Take cold meat, put through grinder, and one small onion (if liked), mix this with gravy, season with salt and pepper, do not make too soft with gravy. Should be "about the same as mince-meat." Put on platter and mashed potatoes around the sides first, then over top. Garnish with hard boiled eggs and lettuce. This is most delicious, if correctly made. If you don't have any left over gravy put a piece of butter in frying pan and a spoonful of flour, brown, and add water to make thick gravy. Add more butter to make it rich. This can be served for luncheon or omit the eggs and serve with vegetables for dinner.

Nut Chowder.

Take one-half pound of mixed nut meats which have been broken into small pieces. Put them in a saucepan and allow them to simmer for an hour and thirty minutes. Peel and dice several potatoes, a turnip, and a good sized onion. Have a pint of canned or stewed tomatoes. Line the bottom of a kettle with a layer of potatoes, add a layer of the turnip and onion with a sprinkling of thyme, sweet marjoram, chopped parsley and salt, then a layer of tomatoes, and lastly the nut meats. Let simmer 20 minutes, then add one pint of milk and a little thickening.

Harrison Cake.

Two eggs well beaten, one cup sugar, one cup molasses, one cup melted butter, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda dissolved in the milk, two cups raisins, one teaspoon salt, cinnamon and allspice to suit the taste, four cups of flour stirred in a little at a time. This makes two loaves.

Baked Egg Plant.

Peel the egg plant, cut a piece from the top, take out the seeds, fill the cavity with a dressing as for ducks, cap with the top piece and bake one hour, basting with a spoonful of butter in a cup of hot water, afterward dredging with flour. Serve immediately.

DON'T BE A NOISY GRASSHOPPER.

"Because half a dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate chirp, while thousands of great cattle, reposed beneath the shadow of the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field; that, of course, they are many in number, or that, after all, they are other than the little shriveled, meager, hopping, though loud and treacherous insects of the hour," said Edmund Burke.

All of us know the type of person this is meant to indicate—the person who is noisy and blustering and who thinks he can create an impression of industry and importance by being so. It must be admitted that there is something in the old saying that "if you do not blow your own horn no one else will," but there is such a thing as overdoing it. Noise is no real sign of industry or ability. We all know that the old, dicky creaking wagon has passed its day of usefulness or it would not be so noisy. The machinist knows that the moment a piece of machinery begins to be noisy there is something wrong. It has either broken somewhere or has deteriorated. He knows that when the machine is doing good work it keeps up a steady musical hum, and that very hum is an indication of power and of ability to accomplish.

The boy who is noisier in school, who makes the most stir in handling his books or in going to or from his classes, isn't the best scholar by any means. His attitude towards his associates precludes that. So, in business or any other walk of life, the noisy man isn't the one who is doing the most work or making the greatest success. It's the fellow who works silently and efficiently.

It is easy to see that John Smith has no "real ability," and that he is never likely to "set it a river on fire," but it is rather disconcerting to wake up some day and find that this same unimportant John Smith has accomplished something worth while, and it is also interesting to note that James Jones, who has always been looked upon as the brilliant member of the community, never gets any higher than the position he secured rather early in life, the handling of which first impressed people with his brilliancy.

The trouble has been that after Jones landed a couple of good things he became a noisy little grasshopper under the fern of his own self-importance. Smith may have heard the noise he made, but if he did not heed unless it was to resolve not to do likewise but keep right on with his own work. When he did finally succeed in accomplishing what he went after there was no need for him to make a noise. Others did that for him. And this is an important thing to remember in our daily work.

Good Demand for Onyx.
Near Santa Catalina an American company has extensive onyx quarries. The onyx is hauled 60 miles by mule teams to the coast and shipped to San Diego, Cal., where it is polished and prepared for market. Notwithstanding the expensive method of transportation, the company is in a thriving condition and proposes to increase the output of the quarries.

Secret Remedies Prohibited.
Two of the cantons of Switzerland—the Valais and Fribourg—entirely prohibit the advertising and sale of secret remedies.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Fish Salads for Lent.

Any kind of fish can be acceptably served as a salad, that which is boiled being generally preferred. In boiling, add a small quantity of vinegar. It will make the flesh more firm and tender. Fish salads require the addition of acids, lemon juice being the most acceptable addition.

Herring Salad With Potatoes. Wash four salt herring and soak in milk several hours, then drain; remove the fillets and sides and cut in pieces. Cut four small potatoes which have been boiled, half the quantity of apples, a beet and a pickled cucumber. Mix all together, sprinkle with chopped chives and parsley; add salt, pepper and vinegar, decorate with hard-cooked eggs.

Household Hints.

For an afternoon tea, macaroons with thinly-sliced angel cheese between is a delicious dainty.

Every kitchen should be supplied with plenty of soft soap. It can be made in the home.

Stool forks and knives should be cleaned with scouring brick after each meal.

Never dry molding boards or chopping bowls by the fire after washing, as they are so apt to warp and crack if exposed to dry heat while wet.

To remove the odor of onion from wooden or other dishes, fill with cold water, adding a tablespoonful of washing soda to a quart of water. Soak for a while, then heat the water boiling hot and use it to wash the dish plates. In this way the soda answers two purposes.

Cool bread and cake on racks made for the purpose, or one may be improvised. Covering bread with a cloth allows it to sweat, and this often spoils the flavor.

Photographic Identification.
Owing to many swindles perpetrated recently through forged and stolen letters of introduction, a card of photographic introduction invented by a Pittsburg man has become popular in that city. Now when the Pittsburg friend asks him for a letter of introduction, he takes the friend to the nearest photographer and is photographed with him in an attitude of presentation. Then he writes his note on the picture.
